MALDIVES TRAVEL CONFERENCE 2016, BANDOS MALDIVES

Maldives Travel Conference 2016, saw the first edition of this conference featuring international speakers from PATA, CNN International, TTG Asia, and Thammasat University.

The conference was attended by over 150 travel professionals (hoteliers, travel executives and representatives from key stakeholders). The topic discussed at the conference were:

- Importance of Destination Marketing
- Luxury Travel Trends in Maldives Context
- Evolving Maldives Tourism Product
- Tourism and Perception – Opportunities and Challenges
Each topic for the conference was dissected by a panel of four industry experts and representatives who separately share their insight and thoughts on the subject. Following the presentations by the speakers, participants of the conference also joined the discussion through an open debate with the panel.

One of the key outcomes of the conference was a report published in 2017 to lobby for more destination marketing budget for tourism. This report is a summary of the first edition of Maldives Travel conference, compiled of key findings, observations and recommendations proposed and discussed by the industry representatives.
Over the last decade, MATATO has played vital role in the Maldivian tourism arena. Lobbying and Advocacy is crucial pillar of MATATO thus we take the responsibility to represent and protect the interests of our members and stakeholders in a dynamic growth environment.

MATATO’s Lobbying and Advocacy, approach challenges policies, regulations, taxes and business practices that threaten the viability of a competitive business environment for local businesses. MATATO is represented on all major government and industry related boards, committees, and even consult with the Parliament on related bills from time to time. The association believes to positively seek out constructive relations with all stakeholders and industry partners.

The association has met with various resorts and suppliers, seeking to get more competitive rates for its members. The association has also been fighting against foreign Online Travel Agents (OTAs) unfair business practices and foreign unregistered travel businesses as well. UNDP supported the association on a study to understand the travel agent’s industry and ways to strengthen the sub industry.
One of the key focuses in the last few years has been to expand the role of MATATO to aid the destination in their marketing efforts.

The increased number of travel trade fairs participated by the association and engagement with various PR agents overseas is something the association has done last year.

Exposure on ‘National Geographic Traveler India’ and advertising in black cabs in London is something the association sees as great accomplishments in 2017.
